Company Overview	websites and to developed algori accessed on thei	TrendMD provides a marketplace for STM publishers to distribute their content on other relevant websites and to display third-party content on their own websites as well. TrendMD has developed algorithms to maximum relevancy, and publishers earn credits for content that is accessed on their sites, and pay out credits when their content is accessed on other sites. Publishers can buy additional credits to achieve maximum exposure.
Product/Service Description	TrendMD provides a simple but elegant content marketplace for academic publishers. By placing their content on relevant third-party sites, publishers can generate additional traffic through clickthroughs. By featuring third-party content on their own sites, publishers can enhance visitor engagement and improve overall site metrics such as page views and session length.
	To optimize results, TrendMD has developed a proprietary behavioral recommendation algorithm, and also utilizes semantic analysis tools improve relevance.
	TrendMD can be used for free by publishers, as long as a positive credit balance is maintained. A publisher gets credits for displaying third-party content and pays in credits when its content is viewed on a third-party site. To increase visibility, publishers have the option of purchasing credits as well. TrendMD is implemented on a publisher website via a widget that requires only minimal coding effort.
	By maintaining strict control of the quality of the participants in its marketplace, and by building tools to maximize the relevance of content distributed by the marketplace, TrendMD has shown excellent results in clickthrough and site engagement metrics. Moreover, the innovative credit system allows publishers to test TrendMD with little risk, while allowing TrendMD to rapidly grow its distribution network – a key success factor in the marketplace model.
